

WISHART LED GODDARD MEN

In Batting, Getting a Percentage of .313

WASCATCHER OF THE TEAM

Cosby, Second Baseman, Was Second in the Standing, with a Percentage of .269. Some of the School Boys to Play with Barre.

The only 300 batter on the Goddard seminary team during the past season was Harry Wishart of Barre, the regular catcher, who "attacked" for .313. Wishart, although light, has played a good game behind the bat, as well as at the bat, holding the speedy pitching of "Bob" Smith in good style. He will probably play with one of the local teams during the summer, as will some others of the Goddard and Spaulding teams.

Wishart's nearest competitor for batting honors was second baseman Cosby, who batted for .269, with Priest, the elongated left fielder, coming third with .262. The standing of the twelve players was as follows:

Wishart, catcher.....	.313
Cosby, second base.....	.269
Priest, outfield.....	.262
Scott, outfield.....	.238
Tinkham, first base.....	.232

The Eastern Yacht club of Boston has announced Sept. 3 as the date for opening its trial race of American sloop-racing boats for the selection of a team of three to be sent to Germany by steamer in the spring of 1911, where an international match is to be sailed against three German boats in Kiel week, which falls in June.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Ty Cobb Should Pay Heed to This Warning.

Like many other young players before him, Ty Cobb, the champion batter and crack outfielder of the Detroit Americans, does not realize that his throwing arm is a rather delicate appendage and that this member requires the best of care. Cobb has a wonderful throwing arm, and yet if there is anything about this wonderful player that will give out first it is this arm. For the reason that Cobb abuses it.

The average ball player never takes any chances with his arm and should not if he expects to keep it in trim. If he is an outfielder he makes only outfield throws after having warmed his arm up before so doing. But Cobb often pitches for a half hour or more, trying spitballs, knuckle balls and all sorts of freak deliveries. His teammates plead with him to cut this sort of practice from his repertoire, but Cobb does not seem to realize that he is endangering his value as a ball player by this practice and probably won't until it is too late.

SHREWD BASEBALL TRADES.

Chance and Clarke Split About Even In Deep Laid Counterplots.

There is no denying the shrewdness of Managers Frank Chance of the Chicago Cubs and Fred Clarke of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Chance knew that McIntyre of the Brooklyn club had always pitched good games against the Pirates, so he engineered a trade whereby three of his surplus youngsters went to Brooklyn and he acquired the services of McIntyre. The Brooklyn club was also strengthened sufficiently to win a couple of games from the Dreyfus aggregation.

Fred Clarke in the meantime was not sleeping. "Red" White was the only Boston pitcher that was able to beat the Cubs last season. Accordingly Clarke wanted White. He got him, trading First Baseman Sharpe and Pitcher Frock. White made good in his first trial as a Pirate, winning from Chicago. And that was not all. Frock twirled for Boston against the Cubs and went through with a victory. So it can be said that both deals have worked successfully from every angle.

NOTED RUNNERS TO RACE.

Professional Stars of Country Scheduled to Compete in New York July 2.

What promises to be an interesting professional athletic meet will be held at Celtic park, New York, July 2. If present plans do not go astray lovers of athletics will witness a run between Harry Hillman, Lawson Robertson and Nat Cartmel. The three champions have signified their intentions of starting, and the necessary arrangements are now being made.

While the greatest interest will be manifested in this race, there will also be keen sport in the Marathon race, which is to follow the meeting of the trio. The entries of Jim Crowley, "Hans" Holmer, Harvey Colin, Henry St. Ives, J. Blass and John Sabin are already in. It will be Stranberg's first appearance since his return to this country. An invitation has been extended to Johnny Hayes, and it is more than likely that the Olympic games "hero" will be one of the contestants.

Flynn is playing a great game at first base and whacking the ball hard for Fred Clarke's Pittsburgh Buccaners.

BASEBALL CHIRPS

Cleveland still has a weakness for big pitchers. Jose, Falkenberg, Young and Linke form a skyscraping quartet.

Don't forget that Manager Jennings had an entirely new infield last year. This forty leader keeps sticking in the youngsters all the time.

Bobby Wallace, the St. Louis American third baseman, shows little signs of old age. He continues to whip the ball across the diamond with terrific speed and accuracy.

Manager McGraw is said to have laid down the rule for his pitchers that a fine will be inflicted in every case where more than four bases on balls are handed out in a game.

Outfielder Bob Bescher of Cincinnati is traveling at a gait that would rattle Barney Oldfield. He is holding like a demon, batting like a Wagner and running bases like himself. If Bescher can keep up his present pace he will lead the league in something else besides base stealing at the end of the present season.

ROOSEVELT TIP FOR STEERAGE

Tells Emigrants on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria

TO BEWARE OF STRANGERS

Talked to the Stokers Yesterday and Will Greet First and Second Cabin Passengers at a Reception To-day.

On board Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, June 12, via wireless to Crook Haven, Ireland, June 14.—Theodore Roosevelt was the chief figure in a noteworthy scene in the steerage this afternoon, when he attended a Catholic service held for 1,200 emigrants, Russian and Galician Poles.

The emigrants, surrounding the altar draped with the American flag, chanted a litany, and when Mr. Roosevelt spoke briefly the priest interpreted.

Mr. Roosevelt welcomed his hearers to America and gave them some good advice on the necessity of avoiding association with strangers upon landing.

He exhorted them to be mindful of the duties of citizenship and to protect the rights of women. At the end of his remarks, the emigrants crowded about him, trying to kiss his hands.

Later, at a service in the cabin at which a German priest officiated, Mr. Roosevelt spoke in a similar vein to a gathering of Germans, who cheered his remarks.

The former president, accompanied by the steamer's captain, inspected the third cabins and complimented the captain on their comfort. He said it was to be hoped that the steerage might eventually be quite abolished and its place be taken by third class cabins.

This morning Mr. Roosevelt attended a Protestant service in the saloon. On Monday he will address the crew and stokers and on Tuesday, with French, German and Polish priests and Protestant clergy, he will give a reception to the first and second cabin passengers.

The weather has been perfect ever since the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria left port.

NO REASON FOR IT.

Sir Edward Will Not Communicate with Mr. Roosevelt.

London, June 14.—Replying to an intimation by Sir Henry James Dalziel in the house of commons yesterday, Sir Edward Grey declared that Sir Roderick Gort, the Belgian consul general in Egypt, had the complete confidence of the government. Sir Henry thereupon requested the foreign secretary to send a copy of his reply to Mr. Roosevelt. Sir Edward answered that he could see no reason for doing anything of the kind.

The exchange between the foreign secretary and the Liberal member for Kirkcaldy, Scotland, came as a sequel to Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Guildhall in the course of which he criticized the British administration in Egypt as being rather more lenient towards the Nationalists than was justified by the conditions there.

Since the delivery of his speech Sir has been considered inevitable that the Conservatives would take advantage of the opportunity to attack the government's policy in its African dependency.

STRICKEN AND DESERTED.

Disabled by Paralysis, Holgate Was Left Alone At Sea.

Pawtucket, R. I., June 14.—Considerable alarm was felt in this town yesterday over the disappearance of Captain Frank Holgate and nine men who went on a fishing trip Saturday night and had not been heard from up to yesterday afternoon. The men left this town about 10 o'clock Saturday night in the thirty-foot launch, owned by Holgate, expecting to return Sunday morning. Searching parties found no trace of the missing men.

Yesterday afternoon, with his right arm rendered useless by a paralytic stroke, Captain Holgate brought his launch into port. He said that about 10 o'clock Sunday morning he was stricken and made incapable of operating the boat. The nine passengers, all Swedes, deserted him and landed in the little tender at a point some miles below Warwick. "Holgate was unable to manage the boat until yesterday morning, when he had recovered sufficiently to be able to operate the craft with his left hand.

STOCK YARDS SUIT IS FILED

Raises a New Point in the Definition of What Is Interstate Commerce.

Chicago, June 14.—The important question which it is hoped will be settled by the government's suit against the Union Stock Yards and Transit company and others, charging the granting of rebates to a shipper, is whether concerns like the Union Stock Yards, operating railroads wholly within a state, but in connection with lines doing interstate business, are subject to regulation by the interstate commerce commission.

The bill was filed in the United States circuit court here yesterday. It seeks an injunction to prevent the paying of a rebate, declares in effect that the switching railroads of the stockyards, while in their individual extent merely local affairs, are really by agreement interstate roads doing a interstate business. It is declared, therefore, that in agreeing to pay Louis Pfister & Sons, a stockyard concern, $30,000 a year to obtain it as a factor in business at the stockyards, the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, et al., are agreeing to pay a rebate in restraint of trade and discrimination against other shippers.

CONFERENCE ON RAILROAD BILL.

Conferees at the White House to Discuss Senator's with the President.

Washington, June 14.—When the conferees on the railroad bill met yesterday, the chief points of difference between the two houses were on the long and short haul clause and on the time during which rate increases shall be suspended by the interstate commerce commission pending examination. Phys. valuation will not appear in the bill, but the president wants an appropriation in the bill in the general deficiency bill, and it is expected one will be allowed. The president thinks the commission now has authority to make such valuation.

Much opposition is manifested to allowing the commission ten months in which to suspend rate increases. The conferees may reach an agreement and report to the Senate and House today.

The conferees spent several hours at the White House and at the conclusion of their talk with the president expressed the hope that a complete agreement on the railroad bill would be soon reached.

A committee of the Chicago convention of shippers of May 17 arrived in Washington yesterday to confer with the president and with the interstate commerce commission respecting the proposed advance in freight rates by the railroads. Prior to its call upon President Taft, the committee had an informal conference with the interstate commerce commission, regarding the consideration of the increased rates by the commission.

E. B. Montgomery of Chicago, as acting chairman of the committee, explained to the commission that the members of the committee came with no ill will toward the railroad. They asked simply, he said, that the increased rates be justified by every consideration applicable to both carriers and shippers.

Walton's Vermont Directory.

For over 100 years Walton's Vermont Register or a similar publication has been a tried and popular annual visitor in thousands of Vermont homes, offices and business establishments. It has survived the vicissitudes of time, as well as the ownership of many individuals and corporations. The Register has been enlarged and changed from time to time, but its expansion and changes have not always been commensurate with the development of the state and the growth of its varied interests. No edition was printed in 1909.

What Vermonters want is an up-to-date, complete and accurate official, business, professional and miscellaneous state business directory, farmers' almanac and year-book, adapted to modern demands and the necessities of public and private life of the present day. To meet this demand of the people of Vermont, Walton's Vermont Register, with its traditions and historic reputation, its familiar name and good will, was taken over in the fall of 1909 by the Tuttle company, Rutland, Vt., and they expect publishing it hereafter under the same title that has made it so long a household word. The new publishers have adopted the old style and familiar form of the Register as to contents, but rehabilitated it from start to finish. The size has been altered and the number of pages increased; some desirable changes in the makeup have been made, and it now appears in a new dress of type, printed on heavier and finer paper, bound sewed in open flat, and bound in strong covers, no advance in price. The compilation, arrangement and classification of the material used has been done by Guy B. Horton, Burlington, Vt., an experienced compiler.

CANNOT FIND HIM.

Posse In Pursuit of Phelps Practically Gives Up.

Monroe Bridge, Mass., June 14.—Believing that so long as Silas Phelps, the slayer of Deputy Sheriff Edward F. Haskins, remains in the woods of Monroe, the posse pursuing the desperate man disbanded yesterday. The Franklin county authorities also virtually abandoned the search, and at noon yesterday three or four representatives of the state police department were the only officials in pursuit of the fugitive.

Phelps, who is a skilled woodsman and a dead shot with firearms, is believed to be hiding in one of the many caves on Monroe mountain. It was said here yesterday that Phelps had previously been suspected of operating an illicit whiskey still in a cave on the mountain and this cave is also said to have furnished him with a safe refuge whenever he was under the law's displeasure, which was frequently.

The fugitive's house will be watched carefully and a strict surveillance will also be kept over all places where Phelps is known to have friends.

No trace of Phelps has been found since the man's disappearance in the woods Sunday after killing Deputy Sheriff Haskins, who had gone to the man's home to arrest him for an assault with a knife on Superintendent William Penman of the Ramapo Paper company's mill where Phelps was employed. Reports that Phelps had been seen reached here from nearly every town in Vermont from the Massachusetts line to the Canadian boundary. Investigation of most of these reports showed them to be without substantial foundation.

Phelps is known to be heavily armed and to have a plentiful supply of ammunition. He is acquainted with every inch of woods and mountain hereabouts. He is a desperate man, and knowing that if captured, his life will pay the forfeit, he is prepared to resist all attempts at apprehension.

Hyde Park Gingerbread.

A very appetizing supper dish, somewhat different from a blueberry-cake. Melt one third of a cupful of butter in two thirds of a cupful of boiling water, and add one cupful of molasses and one egg well beaten. Mix and stir two and three fourths cupfuls of soda, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ginger, one half teaspoonful of cloves and one half teaspoonful of salt. Add to first mixture and beat vigorously; then add one cupful of blueberries dredged with two tablespoons of flour. Fill buttered muffin-tins two thirds full of mixture and bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes. Pan is Merritt Farmer in Woman's Home Companion for June.

WHITE TELLS BRIBE STORY.

He Takes the Stand Against Browne, Who Is Accused of Buying Votes for Lorimer.

Chicago, June 14.—The trial of Lee O'Neil Browne on the charge of bribery in connection with the election of William Lorimer to the United States Senate, was resumed yesterday. There had been no court session since the jury was completed last Thursday.

Representatives Charles A. White and H. J. C. Beckmeyer, Democrats, who are said to have confessed that they were paid to vote for Lorimer for senator, were in conference with the state attorney before Judge McSweeney ascended the bench. Browne, who is alleged by White to have paid him $1,000 to vote for Lorimer, scarcely glanced at the two "immunity" bathes as they edged through the crowd and took their seats.

In his statement for the prosecution the state attorney gave a brief biography of White, who was the first representative to confess, and outlined the legislative system of the state with particular reference to the method of choosing United States senators.

Mr. Wayne then told of the alleged payment of the bribe money by Browne to White, the transaction being completed with the alleged payment of $800, the remainder of the bribe, in the Briggs house at Chicago.

White was the first witness. He was pale, but self-possessed, as he told his story. He was elected to the legislature on Nov. 3, 1908. He identified a letter dated Nov. 20, 1908, as having been sent to him by the defendant. It spoke of Browne's aspiration to the minority leadership and begged the support of the new member.

BALLINGER CALLED UNFIT.

His Tenure of Post Menace to the Nation.

Washington, June 14.—With the filing of briefs by the opposing counsel, the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee now has the entire case in its hands. The briefs reflect closely the views expressed and brought out by each of the opposing attorneys during the trial. In that put in behalf of the Glavis the keynote is a comparison of the attitude of Glavis and Ballinger with regard to the good of the nation, and the document brings out point after point to show the secretary of the interior faithless to his trust. The plea that his subordinates, and not he himself, were responsible for the clearing-listing of the Cunningham claims in Alaska is dismissed as impossible. It is further declared that Glavis was dismissed on charges of the very existence of which he was ignorant, and that the exonerations of Secretary Ballinger was accomplished through the secretary himself, and Oscar Lawler, a "man who had an especial grudge against Glavis."

The brief for Pinchot asserts that the question at issue is not whether Ballinger is right, and Pinchot wrong, but whether or not the secretary is fit for his post. It is declared that Ballinger's own testimony before the committee showed his lack of knowledge of the reclamation service, and power to position. The secretary is said further to have come into office with a grudge against the forest service and the reclamation service, and that he took office in spite of both in a way that endangered their value to the people. The deception of the president as essential to the policy of Secretary Ballinger is declared to have been successfully accomplished.

Pinchot's attorney further declares that his client's conservation policy has been persistently misrepresented, and says that Pinchot believes, "first of all the recognition of the right of the present generation to the fullest necessary use of all the resources of the country."

"Not proven" is, in a word, the defense offered in the brief for Ballinger. The onus of the mistakes made, if any, in the clearing-listing of the Cunningham claims is laid upon the shoulders of Ballinger's subordinates. The secretary's action with regard to the reclamation service is defended on the ground that ex-Secretary Garfield's views with regard to certificates were illegal.
